OU's Interest To Determine Aid Program

By Leo Meidlinger

Decision time on whether to initiate the College Work-Study Program included in the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (the Anti-Poverty Bill) is growing near for the Omaha University administration. And, according to Dean of Student Personnel Donald Pflasterer, the decision will be based on the interest shown in the program by OU students within the next two weeks.

Pflasterer said a decision must be submitted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the administrators of the program, before December 19. The Dean noted the administration wants to see how much student interest there is in the program before giving HEW an answer.

Pflasterer said there are three requirements for the program: The applicant must be a full-time student; must be in good academic standing and; must show a need.

The Dean said the last requirement, the need, will be hard to determine. The program says a student, in a family with a yearly income of less than $3,000, is eligible. However, Pflasterer questioned the eligibility of a self-supporting student, either living at home or in his own residence, with a yearly income of $3,000 dollars or less. The Dean said this question and several others are still unanswered and should be made clear to the administration shortly.

Pflasterer said it is his understanding the program is directed to stimulate and promote part-time employment of students in institutions of higher education who are from low income families. He noted although the program allows for both on and off, campus work programs, OU is only interested in the on-campus program at this time.

Pflasterer said department heads are currently being polled on what types of jobs are available for student employment.

Clerical, custodial, exam grading and maintenance work are a few of the jobs Pflasterer mentioned that could be filled by students.

Students, according to the Dean would be limited to 15 hours of work per week during the school year with a maximum of 40 hours per week during vacations and summer sessions. He said the students would be paid the "going" rate for services rendered to the university. (The bill emphatically states employees now engaged by the institutions would not be replaced in their jobs by students taking advantage of the program.)

Pflasterer said funds from the program have already been allocated to the State of Nebraska, but couldn't say how much OU would receive if it enrolled in the project. He noted the university would act only as an administrator and allocator if it accepts the program.

Student's wishing further information on the program should see Mrs. Yvonne Harsh, Director of Student Placement, Room 231, Adm. Bldg.

Chi O's Capture Beauty Honors; Ernst Is Queen

By Kathy Vail

An Omaha University sophomore took top honors in the annual TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest held Wednesday in the Eppley Conference Center Auditorium.

Francee Ernst, of Chi Omega, was crowned the 1965 Tomahawk Beauty Queen after the field had been narrowed to five finalists.

A Home Economics major, Francee is active in Angel Flight, Choir and the Home Ec Club.

Chi O's 2nd, 3rd . . .

Kristy Isaacson and Karen Sedoris, both of Chi Omega, took second and third places respectively. Mary Kay Boyd and Kathleen McGuire were also in the top five.

The contest was sponsored by the University yearbook, the TOMAHAWK. Paul V. Peterson, head of the journalism dept., was a faculty advisor for the contest.

Miss Ernst was presented with a bouquet of red roses by President Milo Bail. The 1964 Queen S. J. Johnson gave Francee a gold charm bracelet.

The winners were selected for their poise, personality, beauty of face and figure and their carriage. They were judged through interviews and their appearance on the stage.

Three Judges . . .

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Charles W. Durham, Mrs. C. C. Nelson and Mr. Marvin J. Schmidt.

Richard Russell served as the announcer. Escorts were Ron Adams, Paul Callahan, Lance Foster, Gene Groh, Chuck McNulty, Mike Moran, Herb Rhodes, Sam Singleton and Wayne Wotherspoon.

Other contestants were Laurie Albers, Jane Anderson, Melinda Baker, Janice Barbee, Amy Beckske, Nina Bieda, Nancy Bross, Jane Carter, Claudia Chorley, Sharon Donnermeyer, Gaile Foster and Joyce Godfrey.

Mary Greim, Janice Harr, June Hennessy, JoAnn Kruntorad, Jean Kurth, Jan Maxwell, Shirley McClendon, Jimmie Miller, Sue Moran, Sharon Partridge, Pam Smith, Edy Whetham, Lydia White and Melanie Workhoven were also in the contest.

64 Are Honored By Ak-Sar-Ben

Yesterday noon the University of Omaha honored the 64 recipients of Ak-Sar-Ben scholarships at a luncheon in the Student Center Ballroom.

In addition to the scholars, those present included Dr. Milo Bail, Miss Suzanne Falk, Queen Ak-Sar-Ben LXX, V. J. Skutt, King Ak-Sar-Ben LXX, the Governors, Councillors and administrative officers of Ak-Sar-Ben; the OU Board of Regents and University administrative heads.

The scholarship program, begun by Ak-Sar-Ben in September, 1960, is designed to aid scholastically worthy and financially needy students in obtaining a college education.

Each year the original 16 scholarships have been increased by 16 to the present maximum of 64. The scholarships pay each student $150 per year — a total of $9,600.

A student may retain his scholarship during all four years of college. It is renewable annually for full-time students on the basis of good academic standing.

These scholarships are awarded to both public and parochial high school graduates in the Greater Omaha area upon recommendations of principals.

In addition to its regular scholarship program, Ak-Sar-Ben provided financial assistance to policemen enrolled in the security and law enforcement program at OU and teachers wishing to attend graduate school. There is also a short-term, no interest loan fund available enabling students to attend college.

The 1964 Ak-Sar-Ben scholars are:

'Good Fellows' Richer By $500

The World-Herald's Good Fellows Drive is five hundred dollars richer today as a result of a donation by the Society of the Pen and Sword.

The Bootstrappers pledged the money to The World-Herald early in the week, however, announcement was withheld until this morning.

The money for the pledge will be collected from donations by Bootstrappers on campus and from a dance sponsored by the Pen and Sword group.

More details are published in this morning's Omaha World-Herald.

$30,000 Suit Is Filed Against OU For Fall

A woman injured in a fall on campus nearly two years ago has filed a 30-thousand-dollar damage suit against the University of Omaha.

Mrs. Permillia Hulsebusch, 2325 North Sixty-eighth Street, filed the suit following a fall in the upstairs cafeteria while serving a dinner to a group of women from the Omaha Chamber of Commerce on January 9, 1963.

Attorney for the university, W. Ross King, said the accident was covered by insurance.

Animal Sound Recordings Used For Biology Class

By Jim Mone

"Quiet. I think I heard a lion growling."

"Lion?" Are you drunk? This is O. U., not Zoo U. What would a lion be doing on the third floor of the administration building, volunteering for a taxidermy lab?"

While the dean is handing out sobriety test balloons the two hypothetical wise guys play Marlin Perkins and search for the mysterious sounds.

Where

The sounds seem to be coming from room 371 B. But that's the office shared by Dr. Charles Ingham and Dr. Steele Lunt, biology professors. I wonder if the lion had his dinner yet. Expecting the lion to have his entree' any moment, we cautiously enter and see the two teachers calmly preparing the day's lecture materials.

The lion is nowhere, yet the growl continues. The mystery is solved. The growling is one of 40 recordings of animal sounds obtained by Dr. Ingham who has worked eight summers as naturalist and ranger at Zion and Bryce National Parks.

Work

Dr. Ingham started working at Zion while he was working on his Masters Degree at the University of Utah. His primary job has been the interpretation of the area to visitors at the park. He has done work for the Department of the Interior and the National Park service with his studies of plants and animals and their sounds.

Daily the park provides 6 mile long hikes for visitors along trails filled with a variety of different plants and animals. Dr. Ingham and eight other naturalists conduct the two hour hikes along the three trails.

Mountain-Desert

According to Dr. Ingham, Zion is the interest area, "the place where mountaintops meet the desert. It is here that both mountain and desert forms of animals can be found and studied in the same place," he added.

The plateau country is inhabited by mountain lions, mule deer, elk, lizards and rattlesnakes, to mention some. Equipped with both a 16 mm and 8 mm movie camera, Dr. Ingham was able to produce his own films. Besides movies, he takes many slides of animals and flowers, which, coupled with his animal recordings, he presents to the visitors at Zion in the amphitheater.

Collection

The beauty of the park has been portrayed in Dr. Ingham's collection of several thousand slides. Using a telephoto lens he captured a close-up of a rattler exposing his fangs. The 250 square acre park provides a never ending research ground for the naturalist.

Dr. Ingham makes use of his library of films and recordings on many of his TV biology class programs broadcast four times a week over KWOV-TV.

Peace Corps Tests Hopefuls

Thirteen OU students turned out November 13 to take the Peace Corps Placement test given in Room 213 of the Adm. Building.

Anyone who missed out on that date, will have another opportunity to take the test at 3 p.m. Monday, December 7 in Room 1014 of the Federal Building at 215 North 17th St.

Applicants must fill out a Peace Corps questionnaire prior to the taking of the test. Questionnaire forms may be obtained at any Post Office or in Room 213 of the Adm. Building.

IEC Plan A Meeting; Call For Reservations

The Industrial Engineering Club will hold a meeting December 11 at 7 p.m. at the Commercial Savings & Loan Association Building, Forty-fifth and Dodge Streets.

Bob Sullivan, president of the Omaha Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers will be the guest speaker.

All engineering students are invited. For reservations call (before Wednesday, Dec. 9) Paul Reed, 731-6139 or Jack Teter, 455-6925.

"Eastern Religions" Topic For TV Classroom Show

An Oriental flavor will be given to Omaha University's TV Classroom December 12 through March 6 as five Eastern religions, including Hinduism and Jainism, will be discussed in "Eastern Religious Thought".

Dr. Robert D. Baird, assistant professor of philosophy and religion, will lecture on religious thought, practice and the role of religion in the social and political problems of the East.

Originating in OU's studios, Religion 225-TV will be telecast over KMTV, Channel 3, Saturdays, 8-8:30 a.m. Gary Durbin will direct the shows with students working as crew members.

Registration deadline for the three-credit hour class is December 18. Registration may be made in person, Room 182 in the Administration Building, or by mail. If enrolling by mail, a check for $45 must be sent to Television Classroom College of Adult Education. You must indicate the course and if previous work has been taken at OU or any other college.

Books for the course are on sale in the University Bookstore. The price of $8.85 includes cost of the four books and handling and mailing costs.

According to William T. Utley, dean of the College of Adult Education, "A world shrunk by modern methods of transportation and communication demands that we understand our neighbors. This course should be of value to the person who is interested in the beliefs of people of other cultures as well as to the person who is concerned with seeing the religious dimension in eastern problems."

SC to Take On Christmas Look

The Student Center will take on a look of Christmas next week as five decorated trees are set up throughout the building, according to William Gerbracht, director of Student Activities.

Gerbracht also stated that a spinet piano will be put in the first floor lobby. Anyone is welcome to use the piano and sing carols.

The all-school Christmas party, sponsored by the Student Council, is tentatively scheduled for the last day of school.

OU Seniors Guests Of Omaha Rotaries

Omaha University seniors will be the guests of the Omaha Rotary Club at a luncheon Tuesday.

The program, Senior Executive Day, will begin at 11:15 a.m. in the Student Center Ballroom and end at 1:30 p.m. According to university officials, classes will be excused for seniors participating in the program from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The program presented concerns the college graduate and the free enterprise system during the next decade. Main speaker will be C. M. Newman, president of Hinky Dinky Super Markets.

Plant Personnel Ready for Winter

By BOB ERXLEBEN

Winter has set in but, it hasn't caught physical plant head Clarence Lefler and his trusty men unprepared. Snow fences are up. Sand and calcium chloride stand ready, waiting to be spread on icy walks and steps.

The men of the physical plant department are on call, day and night, ready to clear walks on campus as well as smaller parking lots.

Dugdale Construction Co. handles the roads and large lots. According to Lefler, in an average winter, snow removal runs nearly three thousand dollars. A mild winter still incurs expenses of about two thousand dollars. He said a hard winter can push costs up to as much as eight thousand dollars, as it did in the winter of 1959-60.

According to the Weather Bureau, the average annual snowfall is about 29 inches.

In the year of "The Big Snow" (1960) January and February recorded nearly double the fall for those months. The month of March alone registered 22.7 inches, bringing the winter's total to 55.2 inches.

That's a lot of snow to shovel!

Dance To Yield Toys For Tots

One toy per couple will be the admission to the Toys for Tots dance tonight. The annual affair will begin at 9 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

Johnny Ray Gomez and the Uneeks will play for the dance.

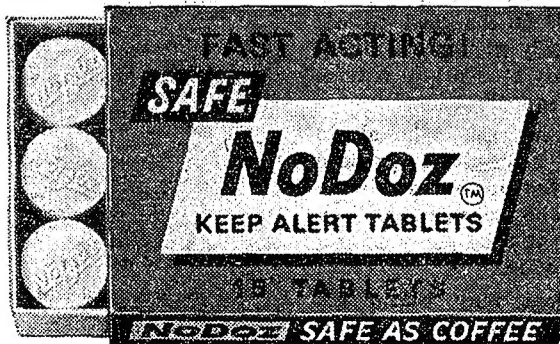

Angels' Flight has sponsored a drive the last two weeks to get used and new toys for needy children. Barrels have been placed in the halls, and people have been asked to bring toys. The Angels' will give the toys to the local Marine Corps Reserve unit. Marines will repair the broken toys and arrange for distribution.

From The Bushes

Response Gratifying . . .

Response to the first two parts of my football study on OU attendance problems and night football has been most gratifying.

University officials, radio and TV men and many others have written with their opinions and even have added several other good ideas.

Plans are in the making right now to do something about some of the situations mentioned in the first two parts. The third and final part, containing quotes from civic leaders and local sports figures as well as University sources, will be run in a future edition.

So to all those who were interested enough to respond and take the time to let me know about it, even if you didn't agree, a very hearty "Thank You."

Cagers Good . . .

Two straight losses doesn't mean disaster . . . the kind of basketball Omaha U fans saw against Chico State is so far and above that of recent years that a comparison would be impossible.

Coach Jim Borsheim has a hustling and running outfit that will win its share of games in the weeks to come. Midland and Chico State have two fine ball clubs and the OU losses are no disgrace.

All-Sports Bowl . . .

Oklahoma City's All-Sports Bowl has paired Sul Ross of Texas with the OU victim of two years ago, East Central Oklahoma, for its annual attraction tomorrow afternoon.

It appears that Oklahoma prestige was regained with Northeast Oklahoma's 62-12 devastation of Slippery Rock last year. The Slippers were chosen over Omaha and several other schools.

Sul Ross is one of the also-rans in Texas small school circles while East Central wound up this year 8-1-1. The Bowl committee preferred another area opponent this year, remembering the OU machine that wiped up E.C. two years ago.

Emporia's great distance star, John Camien, again proved himself the class of the field as he won the NAIA Cross Country Championship at Omaha last Saturday.

Camien turned the four mile Elmwood Park course in 20:25.8 in near freezing weather to make it two titles in two years for the flying Kansan.

Camien was pressed all the way by Fort Hays' Don Lakin and Loren McKnight of Whitworth. But at the three and a half mile mark, Camien pulled away and came in sprinting.

Texans Surprise

The great team surprise, however came in the form of the flying feet of the Howard Payne College Team of Brownwood, Texas.

The Texans ran away with the team title to surprise defending champ and favored Fort Hays. In fact, Whitworth moved into second ahead of the Tigers from the CIC as the cold weather messed up the Kansas team.

Howard Payne was led by two natives of Scotland, John Ewing and Bill Thomas. Clad in face masks and stocking caps, the strange looking birds from across the ocean made a shambles of prerace predictions by finishing second and fifth, respectively.

The field was fairly close through two miles but the bitter cold soon spread the runners apart and some trailed by a mile or more.

1963 runnerup Emporia fell to sixth as Camien's teammates failed to follow his footsteps to victory.

Gould, OU Fair Badly

OU star Ken Gould, bothered by a bad throat, finished a poor 121st after taking 14th last year. The Indians, as a team, took 17th. Herb Rhodes was 75th, Pat Giddings was 112th, Loren Drum was 125th and Bob Smiley and Jim McMahon were 137th and 138th.

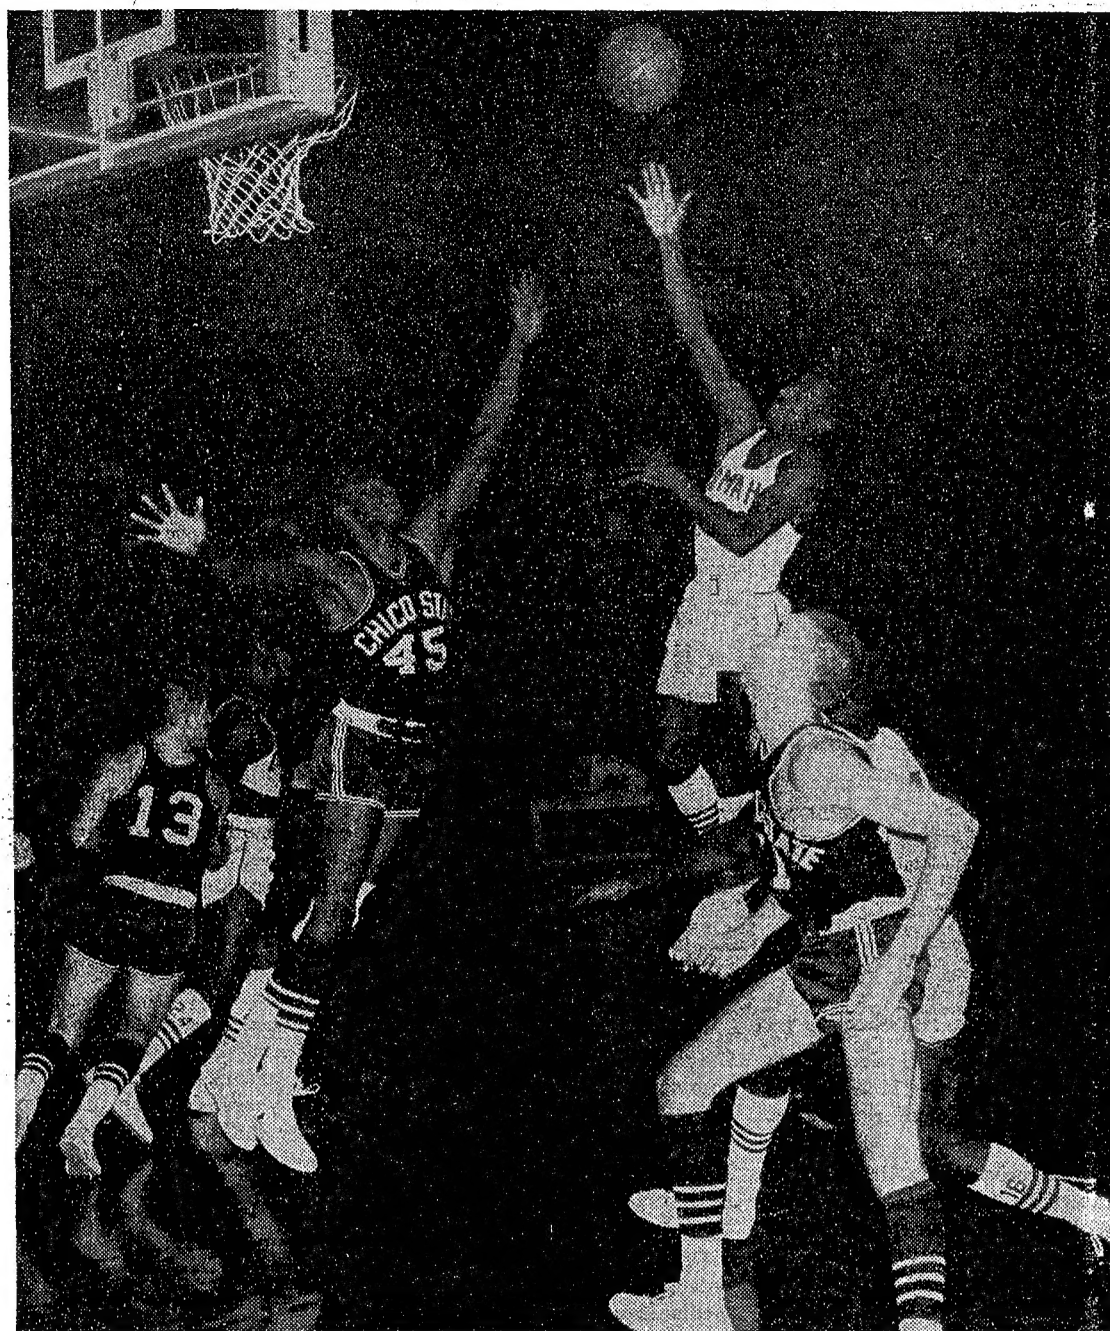

All 144 runners finished what they started at 11 that cold morning, a real tribute to a determined and gutsy bunch of athletes from all over the nation.

Omaha's Jim Myers Hits Jumper as Chico State defenders watch

Omaha University, seeking to break a two game losing streak and some bad luck medicine, takes on arch-foe Morningside in the OU Fieldhouse tomorrow night at eight.

The Chiefs from Sioux City are 1-0 following a win over Westmar Wednesday night at Sioux City. Omaha and the Iowans split two games last year as Morningside put together an 11-10 mark.

Chico Edges OU

Chico State of California edged Omaha, 77-75 in overtime Wednesday night at OU. The California team sped to a 34-26 halftime lead as OU shot a cold 17 percent from the floor and experienced a second ten minute cold spell.

Chico jumped into immediate command in the second half before the Indians, behind Sam Singleton led an OU comeback.

With just eight seconds to go in the game and Omaha down, 65-63, Singleton drove the baseline and laid it up as the gun went off to tie the game and force an overtime.

OU took a four point lead in the extra session only to blow it as Chico's Bill Teglownd led the way. The West Coast team held OU off the final minute to get the win.

It was a disappointing loss for Coach Jim Borsheim on the heels of the upset by Midland the night before. The OU coach noted that the defense was better against Chico only to have the shooting fall off from the Midland pace of the previous night.

Singleton led Omaha with 27 points, the same number as Teglownd had for Chico State.

Midland Tough . . .

"We played a bad ball game at Midland and that's all there is to that." So said Omaha University Basketball Coach Jim Borsheim following Tuesday's 80-70 loss to the Warriors at Fremont.

The Indians shot at a 43 percent clip the first half only to see themselves on the short end of a 37-32 score at the half.

OU upped that percentage to 44 the second half but were again blistered by a 48 percent Midland average and were outscored, 43-38.

The stunned Omahans were never in contention during the second half. Midland's 6-4 Art Oliver bothered the Indians with driving hook shots and when he wasn't hitting, tiny guard Dick Mendenhall was.

The torrid twosome got 21 points apiece to dominate the scoring column.

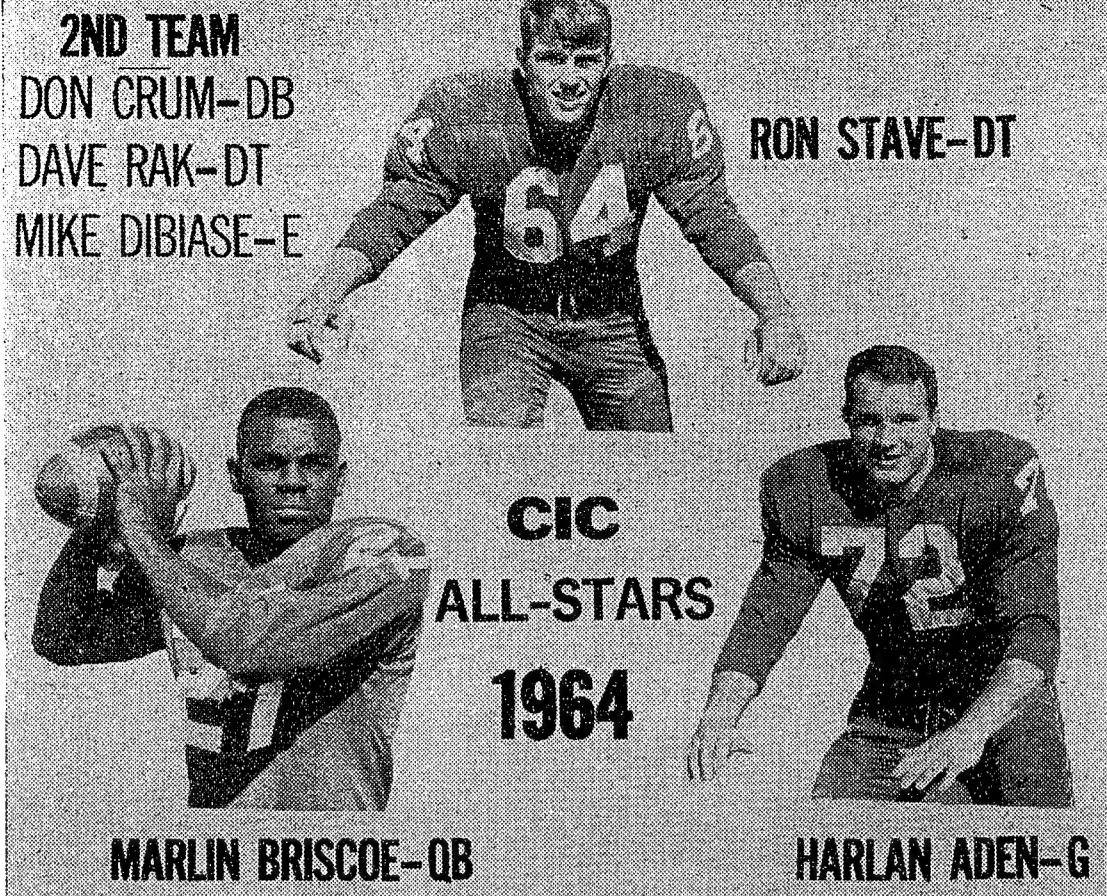

Singleton Stars

Omaha sophomore Sam Singleton, benched at the start, came into the game and pumped life into the somewhat lackluster OU attack with 16 points and 15 rebounds.

Observers described Singleton's second half performance as simply "tremendous."

Ed Woodward and Jim Meyers got 13 apiece for Omaha while the other Meyers boy, Charlie, got 16 markers for Borsheim's crew. Butch Cribbs got five points and was the next highest scorer and the OU depth failed to live up to expectations.

Three Omaha U footballers were named to the 1964 Central Intercollegiate Conference first team.

Quarterback Marlin Briscoe, the CIC total offense leader with 1,309 yards, was named to a backfield post. Briscoe, a sophomore, passed for 939 yards and added 370 rushing yards in leading OU to a surprising 5-4 year.

Senior Guard Harlan Aden mans one of the guard posts. Aden was the only OU senior and is still hoping for another year of eligibility on a "hardship" appeal. The Scottsbluff native was a great pulling guard and led the OU power sweep that was so badly damaged by the loss of Gerald Allen midway through the year.

Defensive Tackle Ron Stave was a demon on defense. The 223 pound soph is tremendously quick and very strong. He likes defense but could go both ways in the opinion of the coaches.

Stave appears headed for stardom at OU.

Second Team

Omahans Don Crum, Dave Rak and Mike DiBiase made the second team and weren't far behind the first group.

Crum was the leader of OU's defensive secondary that was mediocre at times but brilliant on others. He is a junior.

Rak is another fine OU sophomore. The 6-2, 210 pounder is quick and strong and a good blocker. He switched to defense this year after being a part time offensive started in 1963.

Mike DiBiase, another soph, was the CIC's third leading pass receiver with 19 grabs for 280 yards and five touchdowns.

The rangy end possesses great hands and is coming into his own in blocking and other points of the game. He is the son of pro wrestler "Iron Mike" DiBiase, a former football great himself.

Bail Fetes OU Athletes

Doctor Milo Bail honored Omaha U football and cross country teams for the last time November 25th at his annual luncheon in the Student Center.

Members of the football and cross country squads were the guests of honor with faculty athletic committee members and representatives of the press, radio and television outlets that helped the Indian team this year.

It was a sad farewell for President Bail, one of OU's most ardent sports fans for many years. Coaches presented Doctor Bail with the game ball from the Fort Hays contest and then Coach Al Caniglia thanked him for his help to the football program.

Ten Game Sked Completed for '65 Add E. New Mex.

Eastern New Mexico University of Portales, N. N., has been added to the 1965-66 Omaha University Football schedules. It will be a home and home contract with the first game next year at Portales.

The addition brings the Omaha slate to ten games for the first time. All other opponents remain unchanged.

The two teams met in 1957 and 1958 with Eastern winning both games by scores of 19-13 and 74-6.

Gerry "Surprised"

Allen Named To A.P. All-America Eleven

Omaha University's outstanding junior halfback, Gerald Allen, has been named to the 1964 Associated Press Little All-America football team.

The 205-pound speedster, injured the last three games, was named to the first team backfield along the Wittenberg's star quarterback, Charlie Green, halfback Bill Cline of East Carolina, and fullback Randy Schultz of State College of Iowa.

Allen rambled for 489 yards in OU's first five games and appeared headed for a single season rushing mark. Then he suffered a knee injury against Drake and did not get into action again until the final minute of the Fort Hays State finale.

The Massillon, Ohio, halfback had his greatest day against Bradley as OU won, 29-28. Allen romped for three touchdowns, two of them on 76 and 48 yard runs, and totaled 213 yards rushing. The latter figure is an OU record for a single game.

Missed CIC games

Gerry was OU's second leading rusher in 1963 and made the All-CIC backfield along with fullback Wayne Backes and Quarterback Carl Meyers.

This year, because of his injury, he missed most of the CIC games and did not make the select team from the conference.

Coach Al Caniglia termed the honor "a tremendous tribute to a fine athlete who deserves it all."

Allen was surprised upon hearing of the award, and called it "a great surprise."

He added, "I had hoped for District honors, but this is just fabulous and makes up for missing those games."

Fifth All-American

Allen joins past OU stars Billy Englehardt, Rudy Rotella, Paul Blazeovich, and Jack Petersen on the OU All-American Honor Roll.

Petersen also was named to the Associated Press and NAIA Little All-American teams last year before signing with the Green Bay Packers of the NFL.

Jones NAIA Region Pick

Omaha University's 265 pound end, Jim Jones, is the only OU player selected by coaches to the NAIA District 11 All-Star team as announced this week.

Coach Al Zikmund's Kearney Antelopes placed End Larry McCord, Tackle Randy Rasmussen, Center Ed Kruml, Quarterback Neil Kaup and halfback Bill Backes on the mythical eleven.

Wayne State placed two, Hastings two, and Concordia one to fill out the other berths.

Jones caught 21 passes for Omaha good for 198 yards this past season. Jim also played defense and was a contender for the U. S. Olympic wrestling team this past summer.

He is a junior from Morris-town, New Jersey and is majoring in Business at Omaha University. He is a three sport athletic who also has track monograms in his collection. Jones was an all Central Intercollegiate Conference second team choice in 1963 but did not make the team this year.

All-CIC Guard Harlan Aden Looks To Future

By Mike Moran

At 21, Harlan Aden is faced with the usual problems that any college senior must eventually cope with. Awaiting the OU senior guard are: The Army, his future job, his graduation and whether or not he will play football again.

At this minute, Aden is anxiously awaiting a conference decision on whether or not he will be granted another year of eligibility on his "hardship" appeal.

Aden ... At Work

The 214-pound Scottsbluff native played only a small portion of a game against Pueblo Junior College during his freshman year at Scottsbluff J. C.

The game was the season opener for the club and Aden did not return for the rest of the year. He played his entire sophomore year before enrolling at Omaha U.

If the conference representatives uphold his appeal, he will return in 1965 for another year of OU football. That will make both he and coach Al Caniglia very happy men.

Braley Recommends

Scottsbluff J. C. coach Jack Braley recommended Omaha U upon Aden's graduation from the Western Nebraska college. Caniglia paid Harlan a personal visit during a recruiting trip that saw the OU coach secure the services of guard Jeff New

On Season

Harlan mused over things briefly when asked what hurt OU in 1964. "I think that depth and inexperience were very big factors, but with just a couple of breaks at the right time, we could have just as easily been 8-1 or 7-2."

"I'll tell you this, however, this team is potentially as good or better than the last two, and if they can manage to all stay together and keep eligible, I think that they will set all kinds of records," Aden predicted.

He went on to say that he feels this year's club hustled more than any he has played with and that it will pay off in the future.

No Average Guard

What do the coaches say about Aden? "He's the best pulling guard we've had," says one. "His maturity did more to hold this young team together this year than anything else," is another's comment.

In the opinion of many of Aden's teammates, Harlan could be playing regularly at Kansas or Wyoming, had he chosen one of those schools over Omaha U.

But Aden, quite modest about the whole thing, says he will just be glad to get another year eligibility so that he can play with a ball club that he feels will be great.

Future Uncertain

If his football days are over, Aden then must turn to his future and what it will hold. The Business Major is just a step away from Graduation and can make it in summer school if he is denied another shot at football by the CIC.

He realizes that Uncle Sam may have plans for him, but opines that the same goes for every college graduate. Right now Aden says he isn't sure what part of the business world seems most attractive.

Coach Al Caniglia has said in the past that school comes before athletics and that if a player has a chance to graduate he

The Flyers and the Royals will play a preliminary game to the Morningside-Omaha U clash this Saturday night. Game time for the Intramural contest is 6:00 in the Fieldhouse.

In bowling, Lambda Chi has forged into the league lead by a half game over PiKaps and Bootstrappers in a torrid battle for the top.

Lambda Chi's Jan Valentie had the week's high game, 222, and the high series, 625. His teammates had high series, 2258 and high game, 803 as they took over first place for the first time this year.

Mr. Kurth's Sports officiating class visited the Omaha Curling

Club at Ak-Sar-Ben Field Thursday to see just how the ancient sport is done.

25 class members listened to Club President P. K. Maxwell give a history of the sports and demonstrate its fundamentals with the help of members of the organization.

The class then took to the ice themselves and tried out the rocks and brooms. Many found the sport challenging and difficult. Most were surprised at how much enjoyment it can deliver to the players.

Curling at OU?

It is Kurth's idea that Omaha U may eventually include curling on the Intramural program. The two sheets of ice at Ak-Sar-Ben are in use at night and may be free some afternoons for such a class.

At present the Omaha Club is closed because of an overload of members and the availability of the ice. Mr. Maxwell stressed that if more facilities are ever to be found, there are plenty of people to fill them.

The Gateway will carry a special report on the Omaha Curling Club and those OU students that visited the rink next week.

Wrestlers Travel To Meet At Hays

Coach Don Benning's optimistic young wrestlers travel to Fort Hays State for a quadrangular with Fort Hays, Denver University and Central Missouri Saturday night.

Benning ... Optimistic

The big affair will be the second of the season for the Indians after meeting Graceland Thursday night at OU. The results are not included in the GATEWAY because of copy deadlines.

At Hays, each team will actually be meeting each other once in six duals. The action will take place in three sessions. All four teams will compete in each session, with two duals going on at the same time.

Grapplers Vie

Omaha entries are expected to be Dick Hall at 123, Jim Fuxa at 137, Phil Goduto or Jerry McDonald at 147, Reggie Williams at 157, footballer Cal McGruder at 167, Rich Tomasek at 177 and Olympic Tryout entrant Jimmy Jones at heavyweight.

McDonald was a surprise choice against Graceland on Thursday night. He is a freshman who was the number three man in his class in the New Jersey high school championships last winter.

Fuxa is after his third letter at OU. The South High grad has been an OU mainstay in past seasons after his brilliant prep career.

Aden ... At Play On Campus

from Sterling (Colo.) Junior College.

Aden had full ride scholarship offers from Kansas U and Wyoming, but talks with Caniglia and Braley swayed the OU star to enroll at the Municipal University that fall.

"I haven't regretted that decision at all," says Aden. "I like Omaha and the school. The people here are very friendly. It was hard getting used to a big city after spending all of my life in Scottsbluff."

Aden lives with teammate Jimmy Rauch at 4334 Charles in a duplex. Like most out-of-town OU footballers, the home was secured for them by Caniglia and his staff, who see to it that all their men have the best quarters they can find them.

will not pressure him to return another season.

But it is obvious to all concerned that the OU head coach will not squawk if Aden shows up next Fall in his practice togs.

Neither will Aden's backfield mates, who have seen number 72 clearing a path for them many times the last two years.

One thing is for certain ... Harlan Aden has enjoyed his stay at Omaha University and he might even make Omaha his future home as have many other Omaha athletes.

With all the friends he has made, most would agree that Harlan will be entirely welcome to do just that.

Angels, Snowball To Start Avalanche?

What happens when you take a small snowball and roll it down a steep mountain? Naturally it gets larger with each revolution. The tremendous impact is felt when the resulting avalanche tumbles into the valley below. That small snowball, so insignificant when it first started its downhill journey, has become large enough to demolish houses and even communities.

Such a snowball has been thrown at Omaha University by Angels Flight, honorary auxiliary to Arnold Air Society, advanced AFROTC cadets. This snowball is the Angels' fifth annual "Toys for Tots" drive, which ends tonight with a dance in the Student Center Ball Room.

Each OU student has a chance to add to this snowball. Admission to the dance is one toy. Last year the drive netted 500 toys—all of which found their way to arms of underprivileged children. But 500 toys really is insignificant when you consider the number of underprivileged children in the Omaha area.

Marines Help . . .

This year, as in past years, Marine Corps Reserves, all members of the 1st Engineering Maintenance Company stationed at Fort Omaha, will pick up the toys donated by students. The reservists also will pick up toys at the five McDonald Drive-Ins, plus a deposit point at the main gate of Fort Omaha.

Armed with paint, screws, putty and other material donated by various Omaha businessmen, the reservists already have begun to repair the toys.

"We have about 170 men in the unit," Capt. Thomas F. Garity, commanding officer, said this week. "Each man will donate an average of 10 hours to this cause. That adds up to a minimum of 1,700 man hours."

Capt. Garity pointed out the time given by reservists is of their own free time. "No work is done during drill," he stated. "Men come in whenever they can, even late at night."

The snowball rolls on. From 500 toys, the number grows to 6,535 (the number of toys repaired by the reservists last year).

To Civic Auditorium . . .

From Fort Omaha, the shiny toys will be taken to the Civic Auditorium where The World-Herald Good Fellows take over the operation. The World-Herald, aided by money donated by readers, plus income from its annual Good Fellows Bowling Tournament, adds to the toy stock by purchasing new toys.

Now the little snowball, started by the Angels' Toys for Tots drive, has become an avalanche. Instead of 500 toys, the number has grown to 10,000. Added to this are Christmas dinners, nuts, fruits and candy for children who ordinarily wouldn't have had any Christmas whatsoever.

All this was accomplished last year because people thought to give . . . on an individual level. In most cases, donors received nothing in return for their generosity. OU students, however, have a reward. One toy will admit a couple to the all school dance tonight. Johnny Ray Gomez and the U-Neeks will provide the music from 9 to 12 p.m.

So you see, those barrels seen in the halls all week weren't just for throwing gum wrappers and empty cigarette packages into. If you missed your chance to drop a toy into a barrel, bring one tonight. Or maybe two.

After Honors At Peoria, Illinois, Debaters On The Road Again

Omaha University debaters journey to Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., today after taking honors at the Bradley University speech tournament November 20-21 at Peoria, Ill.

Leading the OU team will be DeReef Green, top winner in original oratory at the Bradley meet. Green and other OU debaters competed in the two-day event which attracted more than 800 students from 65 colleges and universities.

At Bradley, the novice teams of Denny Adams-Mary Jo Brandt and Jim Foral-Janet Voelte were given excellent ratings by judges.

Green and Steve Boguchwal will compete in class A debates at Wayne today and tomorrow while Elizabeth Murphy and Lyndall Williamson will vie for awards in class B. Noel Wiemer will seek honors in discussion events.

The OU debaters are also entered in individual events at Wayne State.

Four other OU teams are at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Ark., this week end.

Library Kept Busy As Holiday Passes

According to statistics compiled by OU's Associate Librarian Ray Means, the Thanksgiving weekend was not entirely spent in feasting. A record book circulation of 1,427 was scored by the Gene Eppley Library for the Wednesday before vacation.

Of this total 1,042 were obtained for two weeks use, 331 were reserve books, and 55 were checked out by faculty members.

Article By Lefler On New Seating

The November issue of "College and University Business" magazine carries an article written by physical plant superintendent Clarence Lefler. The article pertains to the space-saving seating plan now under study at the University of Omaha.

Mr. Lefler opens by stating that, "Seating more students in the same amount of space is one way to accommodate a growing enrollment without an excessive drain on building funds."

He goes on to describe the drop-leaf, pedestal-mounted seats that were installed here at the university; the problems they created, and how these problem were overcome.

At present, 26 rooms are equipped with the new seating.

Time Is Still Left To Enter Carols

The deadline for the Phi Mu Alpha Christmas Carol Contest was December 2, however, late filings will be accepted for a short time.

The contest, which consists of writing Christmas songs for unaccompanied mixed voices, is open to any student at the university.

On December 14, a program for the university will be given in the Student Center Ballroom. At this time entries will be sung by a chorus before a panel of three judges, Dr. James Peterson, music department head; Dr. Ralph Wardle, English department head and Mr. Clarke Mullen, assistant professor of music.

The Omaha University Band will present a concert at the program.

The winner of the carol contest will have his name engraved on a plaque with previous winners.

Persons interested in making an entry should contact one of the following members of Phi Mu Alpha Music Fraternity, immediately: Jim Sheppard, Jim Kasper or Dennis Giles.

McMillan Praises OU Physical Plant

"If we could get professional equipment designers to equal the capabilities of our own crews right here at OU, many of our problems would be lessened."

This was the word from Professor John McMillan in referring to the crews in the physical plant department under the direction of Clarence Lefler.

Both departments designed a control panel for the new physics lab in the Applied Arts building. Lefler's department then built it at a lower cost than that of a purchased one. According to McMillan, a saving of several thousand dollars was realized.

The layout was done last year. Handled mainly by Lefler and Joe McNulty, a licensed electrician and OU grad, the building of the panel took nearly all summer. However, it is still not completed. On the other hand, it is able to be used in both electricity and magnetism and optics classes.

"It is a great help to have such ingenious and constructive help from the physical plant department as an aid to highly technical training encountered in physics labs," McMillan continued.

The physics department head also believes that equipment from our own plant doesn't give the headaches that commercial equipment does.

Two Extra Feet, Slow-But Very Cheap

By Dan Novotny

The most amazing car on campus has been found. Out of all the automobiles, both new and old, that are seen going to and from Omaha University, one car seems to stand out above the rest.

This car stands out not because of a sporty appearance or big engine, but because it's two feet taller than all the others! It's a 1930 Model A Ford belonging to George Thompson, a sophomore music major at OU.

A passer-by who has seen this car parked in the free lot at the University may wonder what such an unsightly pile of rubble is doing there, but the exterior appearances of the car do not reflect its record of faithfulness.

Unusual Leader Has 3.8 Grade

By Marilyn Miller

A 3.8 average in your major is not so unusual for some . . . but completing three years of college in half the time while maintaining this average as Bobbi Hargrove has done is quite an accomplishment.

Bobbi transferred from Boston University in February of 1963 when her husband Capt. Jay P. Hargrove was transferred to Offutt A. F. B.

The English major is presently carrying 18 hours, student teaching at Westside High School and teaching an English 109 class on campus.

Bobbi Hargrove

Bobbi Leader

Leadership is second nature to Bobbi who is president of Sigma Tau Delta English honorary and a member of the editorial board of the "Grain of Sand."

Her name is also among the selected few listed as candidates for graduating with distinction.

Being featured in the public eye is nothing new for the striking senior. At 14 years-old she was accepted into Actor's Equity after doing work with the Boston Children's Theater and summer stock for two years.

Low Cost

Thompson bought the car three years ago at an antique-auto auction. He paid $75 for it. It was a one-owner car that had belonged to a country doctor. The Model A had approximately 200,000 miles on it at this time.

Although the car had been sitting for ten years in an unsheltered place, Thompson managed to get it running by merely putting gas, water and a new battery in it. The auto, never had any major repair work done to it. When purchased was in need of upholstering, body and motor work—it still needs these same things today.

Thompson drives it to the University to attend classes. He can be seen coming to OU sitting on a concrete block (he has no seat), listening to the chatter of three of his four connecting rods and looking up at the sky (he has no roof).

Fond of It

"I just couldn't part with the car—I'm too fond of it," he replied when asked if he would like to sell the auto.

"My Model A is simply amazing," he said. "I get approximately 20 miles per gallon of gas. It doesn't burn much oil but it leaks a little water. Having to sit on a concrete block is the only real bad feature of the car." The maximum speed of the car is about 25 miles per hour, he said.

The one piece of material on the car that is new is the Omaha University parking permit. However, Thompson didn't place the sticker on the back bumper of the car. He neatly secured it to the left-rear fender—he has no rear bumper!

Corinthians Name Bogacz; Home Ec Major With 3.55

Ann Bogacz, representing the College of Applied Arts, is being honored as Corinthians Scholar.

The 21-year-old home economics major was chosen because of her 3.55 accumulative grade average. Ann is a second semester sophomore and is attending OU on a Regents Scholarship. She is minoring in biology.

Although her plans are not definite, she would like to teach on the high school level.

Ann is a pledge of Alpha Xi Delta sorority and a member of Alpha Lambda Delta honorary. She is also active in the Home Economics Club, the Ski Club and the Newman Club.

History Honorary Elects Mehrer

Omicron chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, History honorary, elected new officers at their meeting in November.

They are Ludwig Mehrer, president; Larry D. Miller, vice president and Frank Bunday, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Frederick Adrian, History professor at OU, is the sponsor.
